ePortfolio Update – 18 July 2016

Since our last ePortfolio communication on 06 July we have successfully completed our extended testing period. We thank our testers for their time and considered feedback. We finalised and sent our report to our IT providers on Monday 11 July; they informed us last Friday afternoon that the bugs we identified could not be corrected before Wednesday 20 July. We are disappointed with this outcome and have asked for the work to be completed sooner.

This timeframe does not include the time estimated to implement a number of refinements we included in our report as a result of the feedback we received. These are suggestions we have considered, found positive and useful, and wish to include in the new system. They will take 5 further days of work to implement.

The 'go-live' date of ePortfolio v2 will not be delayed for these changes to be implemented or for any other reason within the control of FPH.

As indicated in our last communication, once the system is provided to us it will take us one day to create accounts before we can distribute login details. Therefore, we hope to enable the first users to log in on Friday 22 July.

We'll provide another communication on 20 July.

Kind regards,
FPH Education & Training Team
