

Interesting websites and resources

Faculty of Public Health

1. Climate & Health Strategy
2. Sustainable Development Special Interest Group
3. Resources about climate, sustainable development and health developed by the Sustainable Development Special Interest Group.

Other interesting websites and resources shared during conference

1. Climate justice in the context of colonialism
2. Climate Cares is leading the European Hub for an initiative called COP2 – Care of People x Planet. They are trying to bring together all groups working in social/emotional/mental health and wellbeing in the climate crisis, to build the social side of resilience. They will partner with the Race to Resilience to build a toolkit for social resilience across the world. This is a global effort and initiative which they want it to be as inclusive and participatory as possible and inform the highest levels of policy and practice.
3. Groups involved in fossil fuel non-proliferation advocacy and action: Stop Cambo and STOP EACOP.
4. Health professionals call for Fossil Fuel Non-Proliferation Treaty to protect lives of current and future generations.
5. Complexity theory climate change and health developed by Professor George Morris in Scotland.
6. Health for a Green New Deal is building a grassroots-powered health movement for a just and green society, one that prioritises the health of people and planet over profit:
7. Network of people who “think differently” about several topics, including the environment.